Listening Center

Communication Disorders Clinic
University of Central Florida

THE UCF LISTENING CENTER serves individuals across the lifespan who have a hearing loss. Specifically, the center offers access to listening and spoken language services as early as possible in a child's development.

The center also provides a unique opportunity for future speech-language pathologists to gain valuable experience under the supervision and guidance of licensed, certified and experienced faculty educators.

Strong partnerships with other providers, such as Nemours Children's Hospital, The Bolesta Center at USF, schools and healthcare facilities, are integral to the center's long-term sustainability and success.

OUR MISSION IS

- to prepare students to apply current evidenced-based practice in their work with children, families and adults served by the center.
- to increase access to listening and spoken language (LSL) services for children and adults in Central Florida.
- to strengthen the network of services available to families and adults, helping to ensure that they are able to receive the intervention and support needed during critical stages of development and throughout life.

The UCF Listening Center is part of the Communication Disorders Clinic within the School of Communication Sciences and Disorders at the University of Central Florida.

The school's faculty and staff are dedicated to empowering students to achieve their greatest potential as clinicians, scientists, scholars and professionals.

The Communication Disorders Clinic is a premiere institution providing cutting-edge diagnostics and services to people with communication and hearing challenges.
