Nondegree Student Policy

Nondegree students are applicants who have completed at least a baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited university in the United States and are not seeking a graduate degree. Visit the College of Graduate Studies website for more information. http://www.admissions.graduate.ucf.edu/nondegree_applicants/

Approved Courses in Communication Sciences and Disorders

Nondegree students may NOT enroll in graduate courses offered by the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders.

Some undergraduate courses are available to nondegree students who meet the appropriate prerequisites.

Students interested in taking courses in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders (DCSD) as a nondegree student are able to apply through the College of Graduate Studies. The department will not grant permission to enroll in any courses prior to the first week of classes. Walk-in advising will be available during the first day of each semester.

Please note:

- Nondegree students will be allowed to register for an undergraduate course only if space is available.
- The department reserves the right to deny students spaces in courses.
- Nondegree students should see the graduate advisor during the first week of the semester.
- Avoid the Late Fee: Students unable to enroll in any open section during regular Registration and Add/Drop may register for the UCF temporary course UCF 1500 before the end of regular Registration and Add/Drop. This will avoid the $100 Late Registration Fee. Students should drop this temporary course before the end of Late Registration and Add/Drop.
